Director of Photography | Camera Operator

Robert has a passion for bringing stories to life through stunning visuals. His work has been featured on Sky Arts and Now TV, showcasing his ability to capture the essence of a scene and convey its emotional impact to audiences.

Throughout his career, he has honed his skills in cinematography, lighting design, and camera operation, ensuring that every shot is visually compelling and perfectly aligned with the director's vision. Whether working on a small indie project or a large-scale production, he brings a collaborative and creative approach to every shoot, working closely with the director, production designer, and other key members of the team to achieve the desired look and feel.

Above all, he is driven by a deep love for the art of storytelling and the power of visual media to transport audiences to new worlds and perspectives. He is always looking for new opportunities to collaborate with talented filmmakers and bring their visions to life.

I love to collaborate closely with creatives, developing their thoughts and ideas. I strive to spark creative conversations about what best fits the story and that would then inform the lighting style going forwards. Its important to care and fully believe in the scripts I work on and I really value that dedication from other creatives.
